8:30am-9:30am Building Resilient Cultures and Winning Bank Teams - Dave Martin, Bank Mechanics - *Grand Ballroom North

Building resilient cultures and winning teams requires more than a solid playbook or even charismatic personalities. Effective bank leaders must focus on communicating, modeling, and enforcing values that make a place of business one that good people want to remain a part of. Team members at all levels must strive day in and day out to support each other and to maintain a culture they are proud of - that customers will be drawn to over competitors. Bank technology gets better and more ubiquitous over time. In the long run, however, it does not tilt the playing field. It levels it. It will not truly differentiate one bank from another. Companies who attract, develop, and retain the best people will win. Always. Dave Martin will give his unique perspectives on the state of banking in a post-pandemic - but still turbulent – environment and share clear and actionable practices to build resilient cultures and winning teams for the future.

9:45am-10:45am Five Critical Strategic Traps that Face U.S. Community Banks in 2022 -
Marty Mosby, ICBA Securities - *Grand Ballroom North

While U.S. community bank earnings have been strong over the last couple of years, many of the positive earnings catalysts, like PPP and mortgage banking, should lessen going forward. We have identified five strategic traps that community banks need to address in order to sustain profitability levels while not adding too much incremental interest rate or credit risks: inflated earnings expectations, FASB115 mark-to-market risk, transition to new CECL accounting methodology, highly competitive loan pricing, and higher inflation creating an acceleration in employee compensation expenses. This session highlights how managements should approach and respond to these critical strategic decisions.

11:00am-12:00pm Digital Assets and Bank Participation - Brooke Ybarra, ABA - *Grand Ballroom North

In this session we'll provide a framework for understanding different types of digital assets, including traditional cryptocurrency, stablecoin, and central bank digital currency. We'll discuss how banks are engaging in the cryptocurrency ecosystem, and review key policy and regulatory developments.

CONFERENCE SPEAKERS

Dave Martin - Like many in the banking industry, Dave Martin was an accidental banker. After early careers as a radio morning man, marketing director for an oilfield industry supplier, and a stretch working in the finance department of a university research facility, Dave was recruited by a friend to join a bank. Specifically, he was hired to run that institution's first in-store branch location. Given more freedom (and less guidance) than most people hired to run a bank branch, Dave quickly learned that banking is a people business. Bank branches, products, and services tend to be (or are perceived to be) rather homogenous. If a bank is going to differentiate itself, it will be through its people – the moving parts of the organization. With in-store banking in his DNA, Dave also developed strong opinions on the power of small, talented teams and their abilities to outperform the status quo. Dave Martin was preaching the advantages of "Universal Bankers" long before the concept became cool. Two decades and stints as senior bank executive and trainer/consultant later, Dave's core beliefs about banking remain intact. Banking remains a people business, and organizations with good people win. Dave Martin has become one of the most prolific writers in the banking industry. His columns and newsletters are read in thousands of financial institutions each month. His keynote presentations, seminars, and podcasts have an authenticity and humor that brings teams of all sizes and seniority levels together. He is also a member of the guest faculty of the Southwest Graduate School of Banking at SMU. Dave is a lucky husband and proud dad of two sons and travels out of Houston, Texas.

Marty Mosby is Director of Bank Advisory & Strategic Services with ICBA Securities. Marty has been a bank research analyst for the past 10 years. He has utilized his past experience of managing a regional bank for two decades to cover 20 of the Largest U.S. Banks. Prior to covering banks, Marty had been an executive manager at First Horizon National Corporation where over his 20 year career he had served as Chief Financial Officer, Head of Investor Relations and Strategic Planning, ALCO Chairperson and Chief Economist. As CFO, Marty guided First Horizon through four years of Sarbanes-Oxley and directed the Treasury, Tax, Controller, M&A, Strategic Planning, and Investor Relations Departments. This has helped him gain a strong understanding of the banking industry which he has used to develop differentiated bank analysis and correlations of profitability to market valuations. He was ranked first by Integrity Research and Investors' performance, won Bank Analyst Annual Best Investor Relations at a Mid-Cap Bank award twice, and recognized by Investor Relations Magazine for one of the best Roadshows of any mid-sized company. Marty graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1988 with the degree of Masters of Arts in Economics and from the University of Memphis with the degree of Bachelor of Arts with Honors in Economics in 1986.
